TITLE: Elanor Marie Johnston Collection

COLLECTION NUMBER: B2017.019

OVERVIEW OF THE COLLECTION

Dates: 1944-1970s

Extent: 8 boxes; 4.4 linear feet

Language and Scripts: The collection is in English.

Name of creator(s): Elanor Kvasnicka Johnston, Noble O. Johnston, E.O. Goldbeck, Winter & Pond, Rosswog, Ordway Photo Shop, Charles S. Cann, Dedman's Photo Shop; G. Morris Taylor

Administrative/Biographical History:

The following biography was written by the donor:

Elanor was born in Pendennis, Kansas (North central Kansas). She was named after her two grandmothers (Ella Nora Hunter Zimmerman and Marie Carda Kvasnicka). Her father ran a grain elevator and her mother worked in the Kansas schools for a time. She had three siblings (Robert, Thalia, and Gordon). The family left Kansas about 1935 looking for work. They moved to Wenatchee, Washington where her mother's brother had settled with his family. In 1940 they again moved to Dishman, WA (near Spokane, Washington). Elanor graduated from Central Valley High School in Spokane, WA in 1940. She worked for a while at a local photographer's shop in Spokane. She then moved to Seattle for a couple of years. In 1942/1943 she took a clerical job in Anchorage at Fort Richardson. She was there until 1946 when she accepted a position in finance with Army Intelligence in Prague, Czechoslovakia. She was in Europe 1946-1948. In 1948/49 she transferred to Okinawa, Japan. In June of 1950 she again relocated to Anchorage, AK, working for the Corps of Engineers at Fort Richardson-Elmendorf, AFB. My aunt loved the outdoors. She was an avid hunter, fisherman and hiker. At one time she held the Boone and Crockett record for largest Caribou shot by a woman. She married [Noble Orlan] "Johnny" Johnston (an engineer with the Corps of Engineers) in Anchorage in 1954 and they built a home in the Turnagain area of Anchorage [2109 Arctic Circle Drive]. They were building their home (second?) when the 1964 earthquake struck [2219 Arctic Circle Drive]. The house was damaged but they were O.K. They both retired, I think, in the late 1970s and moved to the Port Angeles/Port Townsend area of Washington State. They built two homes in that area. Johnny passed away in 2007 and Elanor in 2009.

Scope and Content Description:

The collection consists of 2332 images in transparency and print formats, as well as ephemera and a manuscript diary of a trip from Anchorage to Circle to Whitehorse to Skagway and back again in 1945. Two photo albums contain 685 of the prints. Of note are early color prints from the 1940s, early Polaroid prints, and two black-and-white panoramic group portraits taken by E.O. Goldbeck. The images primarily depict Alaskan scenes and outdoor recreation from the time of Elanor's arrival during World War II through the 1970s, including 135 photographs of the aftermath of the 1964 Alaska Earthquake (.2027-2161). For more information, see Detailed Description of Collection.

Arrangement: Arranged by format and loosely by date. Slides arranged by donor; arrangement retained for the most part.

1945 Trip Diary

[From the Forward: “By contacting the White Pass and Yukon Railway at Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, we received approximate date (June 10th) of the arrival of the Canadian steamer Klondike at Circle, Alaska. Using this as a focal date and allowing time out for Fairbanks and Circle Hot Springs, the time of departure from Anchorage was set at 2:30 P.M. June 5, 1945.” Trip members Grace Clark, Elanor Kvasnicka, Elena McGlothlan and “myself (Smitty)” ride Alaska Railroad train to Fairbanks, and then travel to Circle Hot Springs. They spend ten days aboard the riverboat Klondike going up the Yukon River to Whitehorse, then take the White Pass & Yukon Route to Skagway. They board the steamer Norah to travel to Juneau where they catch the S.S. Alaska to Valdez. A Mr. Baird gives the women a ride back to Palmer in his automobile; finally, they ride a bus from Palmer to Anchorage, arriving on July 4.]
