TITLE: Pyatt-Laurence Collection

COLLECTION NUMBER: B1983.146

OVERVIEW OF THE COLLECTION

Dates: circa 1915-1940, bulk 1915-1916

Extent: 434 items

Language and Scripts: The collection is in English.

Administrative/Biographical History:
Sydney Mortimer Laurence was born October 14, 1865, in Brooklyn, New York, the son of an English couple. After many years abroad, Laurence became renowned for his painting throughout France and England, but in 1904, at the age of 38, Laurence left his wife and two young sons in England and moved to Alaska. In 1915, when Anchorage was being founded, Laurence established his studio in the lobby of the Anchorage Hotel and took an upstairs apartment. Doing business as The Sydney Laurence Co., he engaged in commercial photography as well as painting. He accepted a contract with the Alaska Engineering Commission to photograph the early Anchorage town site and railroad construction, but it is not clear which photos were taken under contract for the AEC and which are for Laurence’s own studio. He is responsible for recording many of the earliest images of Anchorage, from its days as a tent city, to the public auction of city lots, to the first snowfall on the new city's main street.

The life dates of Alberta Pyatt (née Bouthillier) are not currently known. Alberta worked as an assistant to Sydney Laurence in his photography business, the Sydney Laurence Company, in Anchorage, Alaska. Pyatt’s extant photos include people, views, and activities from the Anchorage area during the years 1915 and 1916.
Scope and Content Description:
The collection consists of 342 photographic prints, including some postcards, and 187 nitrate negatives depicting Alaskan scenes, primarily in and around Anchorage, in 1915 and 1916.

Arrangement:
Loosely arranged by location.

CONDITIONS GOVERNING ACCESS AND USE

Restrictions on Access: The collection is open for research use.

Physical Access: Original nitrate negatives are restricted access only. Digital scans are available for viewing in the Atwood Resource Center.
