Abbie Morgan Madenwald Collection B2008.14

Introduction

The Abbie Morgan Madenwald Collection provides a window into the life of a school teacher in a Bristol Bay Alaska Native village in the early 1930s. Abbie Morgan lived and worked as a school teacher in the Alaska Native village of Kulukak, Alaska (no longer existing) from 1931 to 1933. This wonderful collection consists of photos taken by herself and her husband, Ed Morgan, and extensive letters from and to Abbie from her relatives, friends and former students in the village. The many photos and letters provide a fascinating glimpse into the hardships and triumphs of life in Bush Alaska in the early part of the 20th century. Mrs. Morgan Madenwald's book, Arctic Schoolteacher: Kulukak, Alaska, 1931-1933, uses many of the unique and important photos included in the collection and provides an in-depth look at her time in Alaska. This collection was generously donated to the museum by Mrs. Morgan Madenwald's daughter, Mrs. Mary Madenwald McKeown, and her family.

Background

In 1930 at the beginning of the Depression, Abbie Morgan applied for and accepted an offer from the U.S. Government to become a school teacher at the territorial station in the remote Yupik village of Kulukak, AK, situated midway between the larger villages of Dillingham to the east and Togiak to the west. Her husband Ed Morgan was also hired to assist with health care for the village and to oversee the operations of a reindeer herd. From their departure from Seattle in the summer of 1930 on the S.S. Aleutian, until Abbie's return to Seattle in the late summer of 1933 (after the tragic accidental death of her husband in the winter of 1932/33 by exposure), Abbie chronicled their adventure in an extensive and daily diary she kept during this period. In addition, she wrote extensively, sometimes daily, to her grandmother back home in Washington state detailing their lives in Alaska. Over the years, even well after leaving Alaska for good, Abbie, up to her death in 1991, continued to correspond with several Alaska Native women who had been students of hers, as well as with others with an Alaska connection that she met over the years. The letters, her diary, black and white prints from her Alaska days, and other ephemera make up this lovely collection.

Through these means is told a story not only of the grit, determination and eventual joy of a young couple in their early 20s in taking on such a task, the collection also is the epitome in showing a Yupik Eskimo culture going through significant cultural changes, caught in both worlds between western ways, and their substantially subsistence culture of sod igloos, hunting, religious practices, and other lifestyles on the verge of change. Indeed, the village of Kulukak, once it lost its last teacher, dissipated in the mid 1930s and was deserted by the end of the decade.

Project

As a volunteer working for the Museum, I was asked to review the collection to recommend those documents, photographs, and other items to be kept for the museum collection due to their northern or Alaska oriented subject matter and other qualities. Photographs or ephemera not related to Alaska or connected interests, or otherwise would not benefit from being kept and could be excised without impacting the integrity of the collection were to be removed and recommended for discard.

This reviewer found little in this collection that should not be retained. The diary is a detailed daily account of life in the village that closely follows, but greatly expands upon, the story told in the small book Abbie later published nearly 60 year later (Arctic Schoolteacher: Kulukak, Alaska, 1931-1933) which is in the museum's catalog. In addition, the letters to her grandmother and the continuing correspondence with Yupik children as they grew into adulthood over the decades provides insight into the changing of a culture. As such, there is little in this collection not worthy of retaining, other than some generic newspaper clippings about Alaska in general or otherwise duplicated in the current archives. These items are identified in the following report.

Collection Overview and Organization

The general organization consists of two boxes as follows:

Box 1: Abbie's diary; first edition of book "Igloo Tales"

Box 2: File box consisting of 27 individual files that include letters, photos, and other ephemera

Note: In these letters, her diary, and her published book, the cast of characters is well defined, with most of them appearing in all of these formats. These main figures that appear in this collection outside of the book alone are listed below:

COLLECTION DESCRIPTION

Box 1: Diary, and 'Igloo Tales' book

- Personally bound diary written by Abbie Morgan while serving in Alaska from 1931-1933.
 Contains 100+ pages of both cursive and typed diary pages of almost daily observations of nearly two years of her and her husband Ed Morgan's life while teaching at Kulukak in Alaska.
 This diary forms the core of this collection, and is reflected in much of her correspondence, articles, photos, and her published book Arctic Schoolteacher. Keep.
- Book, Igloo Tales by Edward Keithahn & George Ahgupuk; hardcopy; published by the U.S.
 Indian Service; August 1930 w/ original slip cover. Signed by author. Name of owner Abbie Madenwald signed on inside cover. Although there are numerous copies of this book currently in the museum and library collection, none are from the 1930 date. Keep.

Box 2: Letters, Articles, Photos

File 1: Letters from Abbie (Kellogg) Morgan to Grandmother Abbie Allman(?), 1930s

Abbie Morgan wrote letters constantly during her Alaskan adventure. Her most frequent correspondent by far was her grandmother Abbie Allman ('Grandmuddy'). Thus, these letters to her grandmother are organized as a single group, arranged chronologically as to date written. These give a specific and detailed view of her entire time in Alaska, which is also reflected in her daily diary, and eventually 60 years later into her book.

Letters describe ship life while en route to Alaska on the S.S. Aleutian from Seattle to Seward; of time in villages enroute to Kulukak; and later of life in Kulukak at their new home. All letters, sometimes amongst topics of personal family affairs, nearly always discuss some portion of their life in the village, the Natives that occupy the land, and of living there. Many of these stories appear also in her book Arctic School Teacher, and are further articulated in her daily diary which is also a part of this collection.

One of the most intriguing discoveries in reading her letters and diary is her honesty, determination, and yet conflict about staying in Alaska after Ed's death. Overall, she is determined to stay till the end of the 1933 school season in May. Her writing is open and transparent, changing ideas and feelings midsentence, a bit of flow of consciousness writing, which her Grandmother is the recipient of. It is a wonderful insight into a young woman's intense grief in trying circumstances, and her innate and growing ability to take care of herself.

		again. 6/15: perhaps reach Seattle by JJuly 10 or 15.

File 3: Letters from Ed Morgan, Abbie Morgan's husband, to various family members (all from Kulukak)

Date	Written To	Summary	Status
7/22/31	Grandmother	Cursive, written from Snag Pond (Dillingham area). Poor
	[Allman?]	fishing season; working on a road building; remarks on economic times 'outside'. [NOTE: Is this date right? Was Ed in a cannery in '31 before they moved in August??]
7/25/[31?]	Unknown	Cursive. Seems to follow the letter above, in talking about hard times 'outside'. Plans to fly somewhere to go trapping for winter, and not coming to visit. Signature of 'Ed' is the same as all of these letters, yet this 1931 date does not correspond to the facts of moving to Kulukak with his wife Abbie in August of 1931 from Washington.
		This could be Edgar, Abbie's cousin, who had earlier gone to Alaska to fish and trip, but unsure. Therefore, it is unknown the meaning of these two letter with 1931 dates. (See letter dated 1/27/32 below).
4/9/32	Grandmother Allman	Cursive. Building a boat to fish for salmon for dogfood;
	[Grandmuddy?yes]	descriptions of location; home life.
7/10/32	Grandmother Allman	Cursive. Drying fish; dogteam; feeding dogs; building
	[Mrs. Abbie Alman]	smokehouse and warehouse; logistic difficulties in transportation; boats of local area.
10/10/32	Father (Clarence	Cursive. Inviting father to come up and stay with them
	Morgan)	because of economic conditions 'outside'.
12/16/32	Father (Clarence)	Cursive. Using dogs and sled; herding and working the reindeer. Note: order of letter hard to follow because of writing between portrait and landscape, however it is just one letter.
1/11/33	Father (Clarence)	Cursive. About his new dog sled he built; planning trip to Dillingham; winter travel and clothes that Natives make and wear and how they do it; reindeer herding and history of reindeer and finding market for them; working with Perter Krause, Native reindeer herder. (Note: This is probably the last letter he wrote his Father, as he soon left for Dillingham, and died on the return trip the end of January).

1/27/32	Grandmother Allman	Cursive. Written from Dillingham where he travelled re. reindeer (see above); found out Abbie's cousin Edgar Haley is doing well trapping at Lake Tickchick having flown there by plane. (See two letters above from 1931 which seem to match this lifestyle). Note: Ed dies shortly after writing this letter on his return by dogsled to Kulukak).

File 4: Letters (many with envelopes) from Anecia Akagyuguaq to Abbie Morgan.

Anecia was a young Native girl from Kulukak that lived with Abbie and Ed Morgan (signs letters as Anecia Maude; later married to Earl George Goodwin, photographer. See: Earl George Goodwin papers, 1951-1973. UAA-HMC-0593)

Date	Written From/To	Summary	Status
1/3/33	Kulukak/Kulukak (?)	Cursive. Stories of Native life and people in Kulukak. This letter is hard to place in chronology. While dated Kulukak and written to Abbie, Abbie was according to her diary in residence at the Kulukak school in January. It is unlikely neither would have not have been unaware of the other in the village. Anecia had spent the winter working iin Kanakanak so perhaps she only placed her home location in the letterhead despite her currently living in Kanakanak. However, a confusing letter. (Note: she has taken up Abbie's habit of making small circle for dotting her letter 'i'.)
5/10/33	Kanakanak/Kulukak	Cursive. Abbie was already in Togiak awaiting the steamer 'North Star' to take her back to Seattle. Letter wishing Abbie a good trip, and about life and people around Kanakanak, in particular cooking staff at the hospital.
7/8/33	Kanakanak/Hoquium, WA	Cursive. Ocalena now working at Kanakanak; hoping Abbie had a good trip on North Star. (Note: Abbie arrived into Washington on July 9)
8/31/33	Kanakanak/WA	Cursive. In bed for 4 months with TB; Ocalena to stay working in Kanakanak; people from Kulukak coming through.
9/17/33	Kanakanak/WA	Cursive. TB treatment going well; many people in hospital.
12/6/33	Kanakanak/WA	Cursive. Mail plane in; letter from sister Sophia (in Kulukak?), about new teachers there; enjoying her life there.

1/10/34	Kanakanak/WA	Cursive. About gifts from Abbie; about deaths of people in Kulukak; accident on dogsled and bleed a lot but fine; planning on getting married (no name).
2/18/34	Kanakanak/WA	Cursive. Written to 'Third Grade boys and girls', probably at Abbie's school in Hoquiam; about Native subsistence life and food as opposed to Thanksgiving and its food.
2/19/34	Kanakanak/WA	Cursive. Written to 'Fourth and Fifth Boys and girls' as above; living in 'Igloos' of wood, not ice.
2/19/34	Kanakanak/WA	Cursive. Back from visit to Kulukak, having gone over by sled with the reindeer.
3/31/34	Kanakanak/WA	Cursive. About a visit to Kulukak; felt lonely there; snow melting fast; Annie Krause got married to Native in Dillingham; saying she will never marry (yet, see 1/10 letter above).
5/23/34	Kanakanak/WA	Typed. Personnel changes at Kanakanak; Doctor travelling to nearby villages; asking for clothes from Abbie.
6/9/34	Kanakanak/WA	Typed. Fishing boats arrived to begin season; personnel at Kanakanak; Dillingham dance.
9/13/34	Snug Point/WA	Cursive. Quit hospital because of Doctor Weinberg afraid she would get sick; working for family w/ children at Snug Point; she is marrying Oscar Nerguson the next Spring;
11/15/34	Snug Point/WA	Cursive. Abbie's grandmother sick; talk of future husband Oscar Nerguson (24 years old); beaver trapping; answers to Abbie's questions.
3/14/35	Kanakanak/WA	Cursive. Not getting married to Oscar because of his drinking; news of Kulukak people.
4/18/35	Kanakanak/WA	Cursive. Working at Kanakanak; transfer of Doctors from Burgdorf to Weinberg, who she doesn't like; death of her brother.
12/27/35	Ekwak/WA	Cursive. Has married Earl George; not happy in marriage because of his kids and lack of respect; seems depressed. Last letter in file.
3/6/34	Kanakanak	Envelope only, empty.	Discard

File 5: Letters (many with envelopes) from Ocalena Chakookwylnok to Abbie Morgan.

Ocalena was Kulukak schoolgirl, and good friend of Abbie's; stayed with her some after Abbie's husband Ed's death. Has moved from Kulukak to Kanakanak for work in hospital as general housekeeping, work. In 1936 moves to Shelton, Washington apparently as a housekeeper/childcare for a woman named Waskey. It is unknown if Abbie had helped make arrangements, but not unlikely. The letters are in simple English of everyday chores and likes/dislikes. Most early letters addressed to Hoquium, WA where Abbie was teaching, but later ones addressed to Seattle and other places (as noted). One can only imagine the cultural transition she is experiencing. All letters cursive.

File 6: Letters from Hazel and Leo Schrammeck to Ed and Abbie Morgan.

The Schrammeck's were teachers in Togiak, who often stopped in Kulukuk at the Morgans school on dogsled trips between Togiak and Kanakanak. They both proved of great help to Abbie after her husband Ed's death. Leo was the man with whom she made the day long hike across the Tundra to Togiak after their boat was unable to make it due to weather.

Date	Written From/To	Summary	Status
12/18/31	Togiak/Kulukuk	From Hazel: Due to slow freezing, many Natives coming to Togiak to trade; Leo to take their 1-year old who is sick by dogsled to Kanakanak to see Doctor Borland on Sunday or Monday weather permitting; will stop and get any mail to take to Kanakanak.
12/23/31	Togiak/Kulukuk	From Hazel: Did not come as said (see above), but are now about ready to leave, and she will come also; has not seen a white woman in 4 years.
1/18/32	Togiak/Kulukuk	From Hazel: Had a pleasant trip back to Togiak after visiting Morgans in Kulukak; Leo preparing to leave for Goodnews Bay to deal with reindeer issues; general news, tips for Morgans; quiet with dogs gone; takes about 5 hours by dogsled from Kulukak to Togiak on good trail;
2/15/[32]	Togiak/Kulukuk	From Hazel: Dr. Borland was there and their son Wallace is better; Leo sick with temp of 104; Doctor "took tonsils out (2) and had 3 weddings"; sending sleddog Judy to Abbie;
2/27/32	Togiak/Kulukuk	From Leo: Wallace is not getting better so sent him to the Doctor; talk of dogs; planning on trip to Kanakanak in April;
3/3/32	Togiak/Kulukuk	From Leo: Sending some vegetables over by dogsled with Peter Krause; talk of general health issues; snow conditions changing for travel as spring approaches;
[Undated]	Togiak/Kulukuk	From Hazel: Undated letter, 'Wed. A.M.'; 'Alright' [nickname for Togiak Native boy] is leaving by dogsled to Kulukak; Leo will again be taking son Wallace to Doctor Borland in Kanakanak since he has not improved.

File 7: Letters from Peter Krause and his family to Abbie Morgan

Peter Krause was the half-Native at Kulukak in charge of the reindeer and other duties. He often made sled and boat trips back and forth to Togiak and Kanakanak. Both Morgans had extensive dealings with him during their time. These letter show the continuing connection, as the last one in the file is dated 1962 from Aleknagik, AK. They also paint a picture of the changes throughout the region since the 1930s. All letters except one cursive; many include the envelope.

File 13: Letters from Otto Geist to Abbie Morgan Madenwald

Otto Geist (December 27, 1888 – August 3, 1963), aka Aghvook, was an archaeologist, explorer, and naturalist who worked in the circumpolar north and for the University of Alaska for much of his adult life (Wikipedia). Apparently they may have made acquaintance through a previous visit by Mr. Geist to Kulukak, although it does not appear that they met in person until they met on board the S.S. North Star in 1933 as Abbie is sailing home from Alaska (see Diary p.101). Hence, perhaps, the beginning of the correspondence that goes on until at least 1958 in this collection. The Otto Geist papers are located at UAF Rasmuson Archives, and numerous books and assorted materials in library collections around the state. While many of the following letters are personal in nature, most refer to Dr. Geist's work in archaeology in the North.

File 14: Letters from Jack Warwick to Abbie Morgan

Jack Warwick was a Canadian author and editor, and a friend of Otto Geist (above). He has some photos and books in the collection at UAF. Apparently they met in Havana during Abbie's round the world trip after Alaska, and connected due to common Alaska interests and friends (see first letter below). The content of these letters is of minor interest other than the connection with Abbie and secondarily with Otto Geist. Also, with a small Warwick papers and photo collection at UAF and the above reasons, I have left these letters in 'keep' status.

File 16: Telegrams

Telegrams from the Signal Corps, US Army to and from the Morgans at Kulukak during their 1931-1933 stay. Details include reindeer report details and teaching appointment details. Individually they mean little, though in chronological order to the story they are important (the last telegram is from Ed Morgan on Jan 25, 1933, the day he leaves by dog team from Kanakanak back to Kulukak, the trip that he dies on before returning home). File 18: Reindeer

Ed Morgan, Abbie's husband, was the government overseer of the commercial reindeer operation. He worked with Peter Krause, the Native 'owner' or caretaker of the reindeer herd. This was a usual task assigned to teachers in the villages, and often the spouse was hired to take on this job. The following items are mostly letters of an official nature relating to reindeer management, along with a few articles or other documents relating to reindeer.

Date	Description	Summary	Status
4/24/31	Govt Memo	Typed, unsigned. From Alaska Division of Bureau of Indian Affairs to 'Teachers and all others supervising reindeer herds' about the establishment of a Reindeer Council. File 19: Musk Ox

Abbie Morgan became interested in Musk Ox in the 1950s from her friend Jack Warwick (see File 14 above), and collected numerous articles and ephemera related to them, some sent to her from Jack Warwick. The items in this set include letters, brochures, pictures, and clippings from different publications. None appear to duplicate the current Anchorage museum collection regarding Musk Ox in the vertical file. Newspaper and some magazine articles have been photocopied so in most instances the original may be discarded.

[NOTE: On August 29, 1977, Abbie wrote a letter to John "Jack" Teal, a Washington resident involved in the domestication of Musk Ox in Alaska. This letter is the transfer instrument for most of the materials in this file, and her 'introduction' of her friend Jack Warwick. As part of the Madenwald collection, this letter is more than a transmittal letter and ties her to her other interests and Alaska experience. Therefore, this letter is to be found in her 'Misc Letter' File 11, not in this Musk Ox file.]

File 20: Stories by Abbie Morgan

Several typed, draft stories based on her time in Alaska, and two published ones. Only a couple are dated, but all seem to be written within a 5-year timeframe, from her first arrival in Alaska until a few years after her return to the Seattle area. These stories often supplement her diary, or are first-drafts for writing that eventually appeared in her 1991 book "Arctic Schoolteacher". Others were perhaps draft writings that were eventually sent to magazines for publication. The two published clippings are from 'Alaska Life' (1940), and from 'Journal of Home Economics' (1949).

	creased lines"	for positions in Alaska. More detail than from her book.
11/25/35	"Anecia and	12 pages. Two 'sketches' of two stories ('Anecia' and Halfbreed"	'Halfbreed'), with only the second one 'Halfbreed' contained here ('Anecia' is missing). This is a fictionalized account of the Eskimo 'half-breed' reindeer herder from Kulukak, Peter Krause, that she and Ed worked with and that appears prominently in her book and in her letters (see File # 7, this collection).
1930s	'Tobacco chewing	4 pages. A short story about trying to get her Native children'	school children to stop chewing tobacco. Based on real experience, discussed in different form in her book. A pencil mark on the top of the first page says "Sold", so must have been published as a story in some publication.
2/3/32	"Poacher's Thrill"	4 pages. Short story of eating Ptarmagin when a stranger comes in and is invited to supper; their worries about him being a game warden, which he is not. Based on true story that is briefly mentioned in her book.
1930s	"You asked how it	3 pages. Description on how hard she tried to get out happened"	to Seattle for vacation in summer of 1932, eventually failing. See letters to 'Grandmuddy' above, especially the one of 6/1/32 and before, for reference.
April 1940	"Little Lucy of the Itch"	1 page, from the 'Alaska Life' magazine about getting rid of "scabies" from a schoolgirl that Abbie taught (similar version of the story appears in her book Arctic Schoolteacher).
Nov 1949	"Eskimo Sewing Class"	1 page. From the Nov 1949 'Journal of Home Economics'. About sewing Sophia a dress (similar version of the story appears in her book Arctic Schoolteacher).

File 21: Articles from Newspapers and Magazines about Alaska

This file consists of original articles about either people Abbie knew, or articles about Alaska either in general, or about specific topics. Newspaper clippings have been photocopied and attached to the original paper (the paper which may be discarded); for more lengthy magazine articles I have kept the magazine in its entirety without making a copy of the specific piece (see National Geographic, for example). Specifics are noted below in the 'Summary'.

File 22: Classroom Posters, Alaska scenes and wildlife

This file consists of 11 black and white stock photos, 9" x 12" printed on heavy gauge paper. The photos are of Alaska wildlife and scenes, probably to be used in classrooms for teaching. The company producting them is "Informative Classroom Picture Publishers" from Grand Rapids, MI. None were located in digital archives or the library catalog, though some may sporatically appear in vertical files of the individual topic. I recommend keeping all of them as a set from this publisher related to Alaska.

Date	Subjects	Summary	Status
1950s est	Photo posters 9" x 12"	11 stock photos consisting of images of:
		Southeastern Alaska
		Mount McKinley
		The Inside Passage
		An Eskimo Family
		Eskimo Mother and Child
		Eskimo Boy and Kayak
		Totem Poles
		Moose
		Kodiak Bear
		Fishing
		Hitching Up a Dog Team

File 23: Prints, Negatives and Digital

This file includes predominately black & white print photos. There is a small collection of negatives without a matching print. Most of the prints have cursive descriptions written on verso. Except where noted otherwise, all prints are assumed to have been taken by either Ed or Abbie Morgan, as most occur during the dates of 1931-1933. Those from 1933 most likely were taken by Abbie Morgan after Ed's death the end of January 1933. One group is from an apparent previous photo album from which the pages included here have been removed. These are kept as presented due to extensive typed additional information about each mounted print (mounted on black corner binders, the prints remaining loose within these corner binders and not glued down to the backing). Most are arranged in groups by common subject or topic, with Kulukak and its people being prominent.

In addition to the prints, there is included a CD/DVD that replicates in digital form many of the pictures above, along with typed introductory notes from the donor Mary Madenwald McKeown, Abbie's daughter. These notes describe the organization of the digital photos on the disk. However, the organization of the prints themselves in this collection have been made differently. I noticed no digital print that was unique from what the prints provide, though there could be one or two.

Subject	Format	Number	Description
Kulukak village	2"x3" b&w prints	4	Two views: one looking from the village across vistas. 1931			Kulukak Bay; one looking at the village from the bay (winter scene). Cursive descriptions on verso.
			Duplicate prints of each.

Subject	Format	Number	Description
Kulukak harbor, boats. 1932	2"x3" b&w prints	2	Two different sailboats in Kulukak harbor. "Evangeline" boat image appears in the book Arctic Schoolteacher. Boat belongs to Chris Peterson. Cursive descriptions on verso.
Structures Kulukak. 1932/33	2"x3" b&w prints	3	Wooden tripod used for unknown purpose. Dogs and people of village in pictures. Brief cursive descriptions on verso.
Dogteams, Kulukak. 1933	2"x3" b&w prints	3	Different dogteams at Kulukak. Cursive descriptions on verso. "Chris" is Chris Peterson; "P.K." is Peter Krause. Sled alone appears in book Arctic Schoolteacher '.
Ptarmigan, Kulukak.	2"x3" b&w prints	3	Recently harvested Ptarmigan. Book Arctic Schoolteacher and Diary often mention Ed hunting Ptarmigan.
Schoolhouse complex and teacher quarters, Kulukak	2"x3" b&w prints	13	Exterior images of various structures around schoolhouse. Interior images of living quarters exist within the schoolhouse structure. Cursive descriptions on verso define each image. Some duplicate prints.
Sleddogs, Kulukak.	2"x3" b&w prints	7	"Portraits" of dogteam dogs. Identified in cursive on verso. Most dogs mentioned by name in Arctic Schoolteacher .
Reindeer herding, Kulukak	2"x3" b&w prints	11	Kulukak area reindeer herd, herding operations. Some duplicates.
Kulukak People (Album)	Multi-sized b&w prints, mounted	20 pgs, 31 pics	Pages apparently originally from a photo album which is not included. Images mounted with black corner mounts, not glued. Descriptions of pictures typed below mount. Images kept together in current format due to specific descriptions. Many images of Kulukak Natives, village activities, reindeer herding, etc. All pages numbered in pencil top right. Two pages (15, 24) with descriptions but referenced pictures missing.
Kulukak People, separate and named	2"x3" b&w (13), 5"x8" b&w (1) prints	14	Each image has cursive on verso identifying the person or people by name. First names can be matched with the surnames in the names list above. All names are mentioned in both diary and book. Image of 'Abbie & Anecia' used in book.
Kulukak People, groups	2"x3" b&w prints	3	Group photos, no specific name identification.
Misc people, Kulukak connected (1950s)	Multi size b&w prints	7	Later images of people originally from Kulukak, or closely related. All but one image have cursive identification on verso. Names clearly tied to Kulukak are Peter Krause ("PK"), Anna Moxie, Sassa Pilayuilnguq (children of). Chris Danielson of Snag Point (taken by Ted Slumberger), Catherine Adams,

Subject	Format	Number	Description
			and unknown portrait of soldier unknown.
Misc people, Kanakanak	Multi size b&w prints	10	Images of different people connected to Kulukak, but working at Kanakanak industrial school and hospital. Names include Theodosia "Ted" McConnell, Anecia Akagyuguaq (Maude), and others.
S.S. Aleutian to Alaska, 1931	2"x3" b&w prints	14	In 1931 Abbie and Ed Morgan came to Alaska on the S.S. Aleutian (to Seward), and the S.S. Starr from Seward to Dillingham. These images depict on-board activities on this trip, and images of villages and towns on shore along the inside passage. Cursive descriptions on verso of most.
Columbia Glacier from aboard the S.S. Aleutian	2"x3" b&w prints 1-3x5 post card	12	Aboard the S.S.Aleutian as they cruise by the Columbia Glacier.
Alaska waters, from onboard ship	2"x3" b&w prints	9	Aboard ship in 'Alaska waters', as described in cursive on verso of some images. Unknown location or steamer. One photo (without clip) may be discarded (just water); others have land perspective for determining location by someone.
Officers of S.S. North Star. 1933	3"x5" b&w prints	6	In Summer of 1933, Abbie left Alaska aboard the S.S. North Star , taking a month to reach Seattle via St. Lawrence Island, Pribilofs, Bethel and other ports. These pictures are of some of the crew of the ship she made friends with while on board. Names in cursive on verso. (See Diary for June 1933 for confirmation of officers).
Edgar Haley (Cousin Edgar)	Multi-size b&w negatives	3	Edgar Haley was Abbie Morgan's cousin that she wrote of often in her diary, the book, and some letters. He became attached to the Alaska wilderness and hunted, trapped and fished in the Dillingham area. Despite numerous attempts to see him during her stay in Alaska it never happened. Two of these negatives show him in trapping/fishing activities; the third posing with an unknown person in front of an old car, perhaps taken outside of Alaska.
Spike the dog	2"x3" b&w prints	12	Spike was Abbie and Ed Morgan's pet dog while in Kulukak and Alaska. It accompanied them on the boat up from Washington, and with Abbie on her return to Washington in 1933. He figures prominently in her diary, book, and letters. I recommend 5 for retaining (cursive on verso); 7 others are duplicates or repetitive recommended for discard (marked).
Palouse, WA	2"x3" b&w prints	7	2 images of a one-room schoolhouse in Palouse,

Subject	Format	Number	Description
-			WA where Abbie Morgan taught in 1930, before the move to Alaska. 5 images of their dog Spike as a puppy in the same location. Location in cursive on verso. Recommended for discard.
Jack Warwick connection	2-8"x10" prints, one color tinted; 1-5"x7" b&w portrait, mounted; 2-3"x5" prints; 1-2"x3" print;	6	Jack Warwick was a friend of Abbie's (see Warwick file above). The two larger prints have locations and subject in cursive on verso of each, along with Warwick signature. The dogteam color print is 'Hurley's thoroughbred Siberians', a photo taken by W.H. Carroll currently in the UAF collection (UAF-1988-168-60). This photo is the same, except for the color tinting. Cursive on verso identifies, with a date of 1929 (unlike the UAF collection citation of 1936). The print of the caribou in the Yukon is identified in cursive on verso. The 5x7 portrait is apparently of Jack Warwick sent to Abbie, probably in the 1950s. The smaller 2x3 picture is Warwick with a black bear he has killed near Fairbanks; the other two b&w images were sent to Abbie's son Malcolm in the 1950s (see verso); the location of one of these is named on verso of one of these images as 'Putnam Lake'; there is no location for the second. There is a Lake Putnam in Alaska on an island near Valdez (see Alaska Place Names), but it is unknown If this is the lake named. Retention of these latter two images should only be for the value of the name Warwick, of which UAF has a small photo collection.
CD Digital photos	CD/DVD	1	This disk includes digital copies of many of the prints above that was included in the collection, along with descriptive notes.
Postcards	3"x5" postcards	3	Set of postcard pictures of Alaska Natives, black and white. Labels on photo face include "Alaskan Belles" (not found in digital archives); "Eskimo

Subject	Format	Number	Description
			Woman and Child" (similar but not exact in archives of John Urban Collection); "Six Little Arctic Natives" (in postcard collection album in archives of Jack A. Ecker Photo Album).
Postcard	3"x5" postcard	1	"Alaska College" aerial black and white view, probably of UAF. Date unknown. Photographer Charles F. Cann ("Cann" label in print). Similar but not exact found in digital archives.
Postcard	3"x5" postcard	1	Probably steamship SS Aleutian. Black and white postcard. Similar but not exact in digital archives.
Postcard	3"x5" postcard	1	Color picture of Spring Snowflake plant, not native to Alaska. Card may be discarded.
Color tinted print	5"x7" print	1	Color tinted print of unknown man on dogsled with 5 dogs attached in an unknown location. Name on bottom right of phto is 'Rex.Harms.' which does not appear in the digital archives.
B&W print	3"x5" card by Otto Geist (1939)	1	Picture of sailing ship "C.S. Holmes" by Otto Geist. Alaska/north sailing ship. Several other different images of 'C.S. Holmes' in digital archives.
B&:W print	2"x3" print	1	Small mounted print of snow-covered tree saying 'Season's Greetings'. Discard.
