Administrative/Biographical History:

USS Anchorage (LSD-36) was a dock landing ship of the United States Navy. She was lead ship of the Anchorage-class as well as the first ship in the Navy to be named after the city in Alaska. In the ship's 34 years of service, she completed 19 deployments in the western Pacific and became the most decorated dock landing ship on the west coast.

In 1996, following completion of a deployment during which she supported Operation Southern Watch in the Persian Gulf, Anchorage entered drydock for its final drydock planned maintenance availability during which it received numerous systems upgrades and modifications. In July 2003, Anchorage returned to its home port at San Diego, California after supporting Operation Enduring Freedom and Operation Iraqi Freedom. She was decommissioned on 1 October 2003. On 17 July 2010, Anchorage was used as a target during RIMPAC for Maverick and Harpoon missiles fired from US Patrol Squadrons VP-5 and VP-40.¹

USS Anchorage (LPD-23), a San Antonio-class amphibious transport dock, is the second ship of the United States Navy to be named for Anchorage, Alaska. Its keel was laid down on 24

September 2007, at the Avondale Shipyard in New Orleans, Louisiana, then owned by Northrop Grumman Ship Systems. The ship was launched on 12 February 2011. She was christened two months later, on 14 May. The ship was formally delivered and accepted by the US Navy on 17 September 2012. Anchorage was commissioned 04 May 2013, in Anchorage.²

Ensign George H. Mellen, Jr., served as Repair Assistant in the Engineering Department aboard the U.S.S. Anchorage (LSD-36) and was part of the color guard.

Scope and Content Description:

The collection consists of 57 photographs, black-and-white and color, taken during Mellen's tour of duty on the U.S.S. Anchorage, along with an invitation and program from the ship's commissioning on March 15, 1969. Also included are "Subpoena and Summons Extraordinary, the Royal High Court of the Raging Main" issued to Mellen, along with the Plan of the Day for March 2, 1971, the day of the court summons. An addendum sent in July 2013 includes digital photographs from Mellen's trip to Anchorage in 2012; digital photographs and invitation from the 2013 commissioning ceremony; a digitized copy of the U.S.S. Anchorage LSD-36 Plankowner's Book, 1968-1970 downloaded from navysite.de; a digitized copy of a 6:00 minute movie shot by Navy sailor Arthur Gregg, dated Subic Bay, 1966; digital images of the U.S.S. Anchorage leaving New Orleans en route to Anchorage, and then leaving Anchorage to begin her tour of duty, 2013; a digitized copy of a portrait of Ensign Mellen, circa 1969; one print photograph, a color group portrait of U.S.S. Anchorage plank owners (.57); and Mellen's military identification card and "Imperium Neptuni Regis" card dated 1971.
