TITLE: Rural Village Environmental Health Photographs

COLLECTION NUMBER: B2013.075

OVERVIEW OF THE COLLECTION

Dates: 1966-1968

Extent: 509 items

Language and Scripts: The collection is in English.

Name of creator(s): U.S. Environmental Health Service

Administrative/Biographical History:
The United States Bureau of Indian Affairs in the Department of the Interior provided health care to federally recognized tribes until 1954, when the Surgeon General, acting through the Public Health Service, established the Division of Indian Health as part of its Bureau of Medical Services; in 1968, the Division became the Indian Health Service. The Alaska Native Health Service was established as a counterpart of the Division of Indian Health and operated under the jurisdiction of that Division. In June 1998, the Alaska Area Native Health Service signed a contract transferring statewide services to the Alaska Native Tribal Health Consortium (ANTHC). ANTHC’s Division of Environmental Health and Engineering (DEHE) provides planning, design, construction and operations support of public health infrastructure.

Scope and Content Description:
The collection consists of black-and-white prints and contact sheets (120mm and 35mm) including 509 images of rural Alaskan villages, houses, and public facilities. The photographs were taken by Environmental Health Service staff. There are also three memos pertaining to the original photographs. For more information, see Detailed Description of Collection.
Arrangement: Original order of two binders maintained.

CONDITIONS GOVERNING ACCESS AND USE

Restrictions on Access: The collection is open for research use.

Physical Access: Original items in good condition.

Technical Access: No special equipment is needed to access the materials.

Conditions Governing Reproduction and Use:
The Anchorage Museum is the owner of the materials and makes available reproductions for research, publication, and other uses.
