

FRED WINTER COLLECTION. Photos, diaries. 2 cu. ft. 1910 - 1940.

B69.15. Inventory.

Fred Winter lived and trapped in the Alexander Creek area between 1910 and 1940. Alexander Creek is located near the mouth of the Susitna River, about 30 miles northwest of Anchorage.

The Fred Winter Collection consists of 84 photographs with matching negatives and 24 journals. The photos are black and white, approximately 3 x 6 inches and have been reprinted from 2 ½ x 4 inch negatives. The journals were originally written in German and some have been translated into English in nine journals.

This collection was donated to the Anchorage Museum in 1969.
