Administrative/Biographical History: Donald Ingalls was born on April 18th, 1904, in South Dakota. His wife Haleen J. Ingalls was born March 21, 1912, in Alaska. The couple had two sons while living in Seldovia, Alaska: Donald Jr., born in 1936, and David, born in 1938. Later in life, Donald and Haleen lived together in Anchorage, Alaska. Don Ingalls died on January 1, 1985, at 80 years old; and Haleen passed away on January 11, 1998 at 85 years old.

Scope and Content Description: The collection contains approximately 246 postcards and 4 tourist pamphlets. The photographic and illustrated postcards are in black and white, sepia, color, depicting Alaskan scenery. Many different locations in Alaska are covered by this collection, with a primary focus on Southeastern locations such as Skagway, Juneau, and Sitka. Most postcards document locations, transportation, and scenery rather than people, with an emphasis on ships. Highlights of the collection include Gold Rush postcards (such as a photograph of Soapy Smith on horseback, and a rare vision of pre-Gold Rush Skagway), a dramatic scene of a railroad bridge being washed out by a river, and a variety of Tlingit totem poles.

Arrangement: Loosely arranged by location and subject.
