

Three of 29 cassette tapes recorded about 1953 between Wesley Earl Dunkle, Henry Watkins, and an unidentified interviewer. Dunkle came into the country with the Chisna Mining and Improvement Co. in 1899, and lived variously at Valdez, Kennicott, and Anchorage and owned the Golden Zone mining claim in the Broad Pass area. The tapes are being reviewed and summarized by geologist Chuck Hawley. Accompanying the tapes are eighteen postcards, a 1939 publication about Anchorage, and two bowling trophies.

B95.24

A gift of Bruce Dunkle, son of W.E. Dunkle of Laguna Hills, CA. to the Cook Inlet Historical Society.

The photograph album of Edith Nickell, now of Spokane, from her trip through the Inside Passage about 1916. Of particular interest are several images of Anchorage by Maude Dempsey of Seattle.

B95.1.1-82

A gift to Karen Braun from the collector, and from Karen Braun to the Museum.

One of six albums containing 669 photographs relating to tourism and the Alaska Railroad, the collection of John D. Urban, the Railroad's Tourist Agent in the 1920s.

B95.19

A gift to the Museum from the collector's son John Urban of Federal Way, Washington.