TITLE: Morgan Sherwood Alaska Railroad Photographs

COLLECTION NUMBER: B1999.022

OVERVIEW OF THE COLLECTION

Dates: 1949-1950

Extent: 77 items

Language and Scripts: The collection is in English.

Name of creator(s): Morgan B. Sherwood, Steve McCutcheon, K. Boswell

Administrative/Biographical History:
Morgan Bronson Sherwood was born Oct. 22, 1929 in Anchorage and spent the first 19 years of his life here, graduating from Anchorage High School in 1947. He worked for the Alaska Railroad during the summer and fall of 1949, and perhaps in 1950, as part of an evaluation survey team “sent to plot and evaluate every piece of ARR property from Seward to Fairbanks.” His fellow workers included Steele Wotkyns, Roger Erickson, Marvin Trump, and party chief Norval Miller.¹

Sherwood earned his master's and doctorate degrees in history from the University of California at Berkeley. He held teaching positions at the University of Maryland, the University of Cincinnati and the University of California Davis, the latter from 1965 to 1991, when he retired. While at U.C. Davis, he helped edit the journal Agricultural History for many years.

From 1946-1952, over $70 million in improvements were made to the railroad, which was well-worn after heavy use during World War II. A summary of this rehabilitation effort is in Prince, Vol. 2, pp. 816-818.
served as editorial adviser to half a dozen scholarly journals and book publishers and was a member of or an advisory board appointee to a number of organizations devoted to the American West and environmental history.

Sherwood was the author of several books about Alaska and its history including Exploration of Alaska, 1865-1900, which was selected for The Alaska 67: A Guide to Alaska’s Best History Books by the Alaska Historical Society in 2006. He also wrote Big Game in Alaska: A History of Wildlife and People, and The Cook Inlet Collection: Two Hundred Years of Selected Alaskan History. He was an editorial advisor for Alaska Journal and Alaska History. In 1983, he received an honorary degree from the University of Alaska Fairbanks. In addition to his research in American science and technology, the American West and Alaska, and environmental history, he maintained a lifelong interest in magic and quackery and their histories. Sherwood and his wife Jeanie built a cabin at Halibut Cove across Kachemak Bay from Homer and for three decades, spent their summers there. Morgan Sherwood died of cancer in Davis, California, on October 31, 2000 and at his request, his ashes were distributed over Kachemak Bay.²

Scope and Content Description:
The collection consists of 77 35mm color slides. Most images are of scenes along the railroad between Seward and Fairbanks, many featuring the survey crew. There are also generic images of Alaskan flora and fauna, some taken by other photographers, implying that the collection may have been used for a slide talk about Alaska. All but a few images were taken during the summer and fall of 1949.

Notable images include female Native section gang workers near Cantwell, the water tank and railroad yard at Matanuska Junction, and the Jonesville coal mine.

Arrangement: Collection arranged by donor, generally from south to north along the Alaska Railroad.
