OVERVIEW OF THE COLLECTION

Dates: 1913-2000

Extent: 9 boxes

Name of creator(s): Josephine Crumrine-Liddell, Nina McGee Hanscom-Crumrine, Robert Liddell, Trevor Davis, Walt Smith, William W. Bacon III, Bradley Studio in Seattle, Musket Studio in Seattle, Fisher Studio in Ketchikan, Perkins Studio, Reliable Studio, Photo Shop Studio, Merrill Studio

Administrative/Biographical History:

Josephine "Jo" Crumrine Liddell was born in Seattle on April 16, 1917, and died at her home in Anchorage on May 10, 2005. Her mother was Nina McGee Hanscom-Crumrine and father Lewis C. Hanscom. In 1923, mother and daughter moved to Ketchikan to live with Nina's uncle, H.V. McGee, and from there travelled throughout Alaska as a pair who came to be known as 'the painters Crumrine'. From Ketchikan they traveled north, took a stern-wheeler down the Yukon from Whitehorse, and later traveled as far north as Utqiagvik, stopping at villages for a time while Nina painted portraits.

Crumrine Liddell studied art at the California School of Fine Arts in San Francisco and the Colorado Springs Fine Art Center. Josephine became known for her scenic views of Alaska mountains, portraits of Alaska Native people, and portraits of animals, mainly dogs.

She painted portraits and landscapes in the 1930s for the Alaska Steamship Company. The Company featured her dog paintings on the covers of ship menus. Some of her other clients included the Northern Pacific and Canadian Railroads. She wanted her artwork to address trophy hunting and commercial destruction of the endangered animals of the world. During the 1940s she worked with the Alaska Steamship Company, painting menu covers, which became highly collectible. On March 31, 1959, she married Robert Liddell in Fairbanks and lived in Juneau, Haines and Homer. Following Robert Liddell's death in 1969, she continued her professional art career and travelled widely around the world, always returning to her home in Alaska, particularly to Homer.

Scope and Content Description:

This collection includes a mixture of both Jo and Nina's life and work since they travelled and worked together for much of their lives in Alaska. This consists of printed material including diaries, scrap books, art sketches, miscellany paper and printed material; and a robust media collection of photographic prints, negatives, transparencies, and 35mm slides. Much of this early collection provides a delightful picture of Alaska in the 1930s through the 1950s during times of her and her mother's travels around Alaska; and then follows Jo individually through her further travels and her profession as an artist.

The collection is organized into two broad categories, the first being 'Manuscripts, Letters, Paper'; and the second being 'Photographic Media'.
